There is something truly magical about the journey of a handmade rug from loom to room; each piece tells its own story, vibrating with the energy of the hands that created it.

Beginning with the selection of yarns, the intricate dying processes and ultimately, the weaving, these pieces are crafted with the knowledge of age-old practices that are passed down over countless generations. Handmade rugs have always held a very special place in the fiber of Couristan's history and we honor that history with our collection of artisan pieces.

Couristan began its tradition of quality almost 100 years ago, offering hand-knotted rugs that reflected their deep history. Over the years, the assortment has moved to embrace the changing times with more selections in machine-woven and outdoor qualities; this year seemed like the perfect time to go back to our roots.

Over the last several months, we have worked hard to create a collection that is reflective of Couristan's lineage in rugs, returning to handmade pieces that speak to it. These modern heirlooms are au courant in aesthetic with a gentle nod to the rugs that came before them. Beautiful hand-knotted designs, absent of repeats, are given new life in hues of pink, turquoise and indigo. Sustainable collections in undyed wools and chunky finishes showcase the true artistry of the weavers, highlighting that "thing" about these rugs that made us fall in love all those years ago.

The Signature Collection of rugs are special pieces reserved for our retail partners who have the ability to show them as they are meant to be seen: in-person.

Our hope is that you listen carefully to the stories that our rugs tell and give them a place to showcase their beauty.
